To prevent any surprise attack from that quarter, the mercenary warlords are stationing their out posts to the east of Canton. However, it is the desire to save Canton from devastation, the city being such a rich source of "squeeze," that will stave off the

"The mercenaries came into the province 😭 and reinstated Dr. Sun. At one time they allowed his civil satellites to rule on sufferance. Now the Communist politicians want | the mercenaries either to be subservient to their cause which ? means, principally, sacrificing the main sources of revenue in their hands, and doing the Reds' biddance. Since they have lived on ? the fat of the land, it is not to be expected that the soldiers will i tolerate an attempt to strip them of their power. It was the Communists who first made threatening gestures, but when the Yunnanese and Kwangsi concentrated their forces in the city, the politicians found the place too hot | for them and retired to Honam (across the river) or to Whampos. In a few weeks, their intrigue and bombast has given their hopes a decided fillip and according to the gentleman inter-

College should be maintained,

Yet another tribute to Mr. Tanner's zeal and ability was forthcoming at the annual dinner of Queen's College Old Boys' Association, the last which Mr. Tanner, attended, as Vice-President. Mr. George Grimble, Chairman, said that the zeal and ability he had brought to bear in his capacity had been such as to commend him not only to the College but to the whole body of his fellow citizens. He had exercised the powers with which he had been invested with firmness and moderation and when the time came for him All render up his trust it would be found that the dignity and prestige of his honourable office had suffered nothing but good at his hands.

Both on this and other occasions Mr. Tanner has been the subject of congratulation on the manner in which he has maintained the standards and traditions of Queen's College and the hope has been expressed that he will live long to enjoy his welldeserved pension. Mr. Tanner's reply to these expressions of goodwill has been that the aim of the College is to give the boys a sound and wholesome diet of education, just as parents provide food for growing children. Upon the occasion of the Old Boys' dinner already mentioned Mr. Tanner regretted that he was to sever that intimate, personal and individual attention with his boys at the College which in England could not be kept up when one severed connection with the school so far away. Personally, he would like to stop, but by the time October came round he would be pretty well exhausted." He had been at this sort of work for about 40 years and he started in the strenuous old days of pupil

LOCAL MAN'S BETTER TERMS.

After fairly long discussion with Mr. T. G. Bennett, Honorary Secretary and Treasurer of the Boxing Association, Cartlidge and Dupre signed articles yesterday afternoon to fight a return bout at the City Hall on June 13.

Cartlidge has got very much better terms both financially and as to conditions. For the first bout, they weighed in at 131 lbs. ringside. This time the weight is 131 lbs. at 2 p.m. on the day of the contest. Cartlidge, therefore, has the advantage of not having to be at about 4 lbs. below his

As Mr. J. Brook, the Association's manager, told the "China Mail," Cartlidge has been treated more generously and Dupre is quite happy. The terms have not been divulged.

The fight will be under N.S.C. rules with a referee and two judges as was the case when the men first met. In the negotiations Dupre suggested three bridge bear Oxford by II matches minute rounds, but it was ultim- to 10. ately agreed to box over fifteen two-minute rounds: 💉

PREHISTORIC INDIA.

DISCOVERY OF REMAINS OF -8,000 B.C.

The most recent developments: in Indian archaeology really seem to deserve the application of that much-abused tehm 'enoch-making," for they open up new vistas. in archaeological inquiry and giveevery promise of vital additions to our knowledge of human origins writes a Labore Correspondent of the "Manchester Guardian." For at least sixty years Hamppe, in the Montgomery district of the Punjab (the place which acquired a grim notorioty a low months ago It also adopted a resolution in- on account of the terrible train troduced by the Indian workers smash there), has set a puzzle administration, after consultation baffled everybody. A number of stone seals were found there which bore the figure of a bull without a a totally non-Indian character. until a few months ago, when ex-." cavations at Larkana in Sind produced a number of exactly similar. seals. But most significant of all was the fact that the strata fromwhich these Larkana seals were recovered lay directly above strata in which neolithic remains were found. On this the head of the Indian Archaeological Department published photographs of all these objects in England and asked savants to report; if possible, on their affinities. At once a reply came from Professor Sayce, giving the information that the devices and characters were definitely Sumerian, and other authorities corrobonited.

this information. The significance of this is at once apparent to students of Indian archieology. Hitherto - it might fairly be said that the fourth century B.C. marked the extreme limits to which the Indian Archeological Department has managed to trace the origins of Indian civilisation. Now, at a bound, the limit was pushed back to 2,800 or 3,000 B.C.

THE SUMERIAN CIVILISATION. The most recent and apparently the most important, discoveries so far have been made at a new site at have been arrested charged with Mahenjo Daro; neur the sea, a good way south of Larkana. These have greatly advanced the inquiry into the problem of the Sumerian civilisation in India. Seals of the Harappa and Larkana pattern, with figures of bulls cut on them, have been found, while others are inscribed with the figures of peacocks and even rhinoceroses. copper bowl has been found, and much black pottery. The colour of the latter is due merely to black paint; the nottery itself is biomdinary terra-cotta. Two other very interesting features of the Mahenjo Daro finds are seal impressions still sticking to the rushes which had been used for fastening up bundles. and the finding of implements of

> Some big questions are suggested by these new discoveries. Did the Sumerian civilisation originate in India or did it come here from elsewhere? And what are the links between this civilisation and that which we see in being in the Ganges valley from the sixth century B.C., when the first faint streak of the light of history begins to fall on India? At present there is an absolute cleavage between the two. There is no hint of any connection between Sumerian and Arvan. That the Sumerians occupied as part, at any rate, of India before the Arvan forbears of the Hindus came through the Northern passes seems now certain. Shall we ever recover any of the history of the clash (if clash there were) between the two? It will not be the fault of the Indian Archmological Depart. ment if we do not. And the Department ought to be able to count on the generous support of enlightened Indians.

THE ROUTE THE SUMERIANS

CAME BY.

Besides the sites of Mahenjo Daro. Larkana, and Harappa, excavations are to be undertaken in Baluchistan, with the idea of finding out, if possible, whether the Sumeriana came into India via the head of the Persian Gulf, Persia, and Baluchistan, rather than by sea. The extensive use of couch shell for inlay work, etc., revealed in the Mahenjo Daro excavations seems to suggest that theirs was a civilisation baced on the sea. Still, Baluchistan is well worth trying, for some years ago, a few young British military officers excavated a mound at Nahl. a lonely, seldom-visited spot in Baluchistan, and there they found matter of time. The British reviewed the regiment. Dr. Barham (Claybury Mental Hospital) said that from the point of view of medical treatment educational facility, and economicstandpoint there was divergence of opinion as to whether early cases of mental disorder should be received in mental hospitals. There were those who deprecated any association, however slight between cases of incipient mental disorder and definite insanity.

Dealing with the question of sending cases out on trial, Mr. . For weeks past columns upon columns of the Press have been filled with nauseous details of legal cases that are a blot on our civilisation. Lurid incidents in revolting crimes, minute particulars of murders, suicides, and thefts pander to the cravings which are so common to all of us, and their exclusion from our newspapers would, I believe, have a more beneficial effect than the delivery of countless sermons.

"Theatres, music-halls, and cinemas have, like the Press, much to answer for. The libretto and the 'patter' have approached as closely as possible (in many cases far too closely) to the limit set by the Censor, and many of the hoardings are disfigured by illustrations as foully suggestive as they dare be. YESTERDAY'S SOLUTION.

ANGRY SCULPTORS

DESIGNS FOR MEMORIAL SMASHED.

The decision of a committee which selected from many entries a war memorial for Milan has caused great discontent.

Two of the disappointed sculptors, after publicly criticising the verdict on the exhibition of designs, proceeded to smash first their works, and then the models of other artists. Their fury turned in particular against the work of the sculptor Castiglioni, considered by the public and Press as one of the best.

General panic followed, and the police had to intervene. Two sculptors, Gianinazzi, of Rome, and Carlo Pizzi, of Milan, were arrested. The majority of the seventy-five models exhibited suffered damage.

BONDS WITH U.S.

MR. BALDWIN RECALLS A WAR SCENE.

Mr. Baldwin, the Prime Minister at the sixth annual dinner of the members of the British War Missions to the United States in London, said the bond uniting Britain and the United States was a very special bond.

"We are, as it were, comrades in arms," he continued, "because our friendship began and gathered estrength, and was demented almost within sound of the guns of the great war."

THE FIERY FURNACE After describing the deep and profound silence of 'the crowds in Horse Guards parade when the first American troops marched through London during the war, he said:

I wondered how the fight looked to them. The thought of the homes from which they had come, the strangeness of the surroundings to them, their feeling of fresh enthusiasm, our feeling of warm but | thears, such as Dumas, Unizae, and grim determination begetten of the blievege Sand, were assisted at three years of hell through which l we had passed, and I could not hames never appeared on the titlehelp feeling how little in the triumph of that march they coulds realise what that fiery furnace was towards which they were going. and from which few of those his collaborator would have to take early regiments could ever hope hit up. We thought then much of our combined and united influence on the world. Possibly the freshness. of that feeling, it may be in both countries, has to some extent evaporated in the stremous years of peace which have followed. But there is just as much need, if not more need, to-day, for the understanding, for the co-operation, and for that mutual help, as must need as ever there was in the time of the war. Friendship at the best of times was fragile. It would not run along of itself. Friendships required care and consideration. He added:

Whatever else may happen whatever misfortune may befall your country or my own, the peace and friendship which not exist between the two countries wil be, as it shall be my desire to make them, perpetual." Those are the words of Abraham Lincoln. (Cheers.)

Since those words were uttered we have passed through Armageddon together. May the friendship between the two nations, based on mutual knowledge and understanding, be perpetual for the benefit of the whole of the world.

TELESCOPE. BIGGEST

TO BE FIXED ON A

The biggest telescope which can be made at the present time is to be erected on Mount Salève, near Geneva, at an altitude of over 4,000 ft.

What its size will be is not yet known. Experiments are being carried out by two American scientists near Paris, and it is hoped they may succeed in casting a glass disc for a reflector twice as big as the present largest at Mount Wilson, in America, which measures 100in. in diameter. In any case, the reflector will weigh several tons, and will have to be brought to its destination by road on a truck drawn by motor tractor. A start has already been made with the building of a road up the Salève, but the observatory will not be built until the dimensions of the telescope are

In addition to the astronomical observatory, it is proposed to establish a meteorological station, with a powerful wireless installation able to keep in touch " with weather conditions all over the

The scheme is the private of Indian and French extraction, possessing a large property in Haute Savoie, on the southern slope of Mount Salève.
